

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for managing latency includes receiving data from synchronous transport signals (STS) and virtual tributary (VT) sources, providing a provisioning bit for each output associated with a memory, and adjusting a pointer for the VT sources based on the provisioning bit such that the STS and VT outputs are synchronized.